

PUBLIC LIBRARY

NEW PROPOSAL

Plans for a new Public Library, with a Contemporary design, rather than the original Colonial design, presented some months ago, were shown Monday night to a combined meeting of the Permanent Building Committee, Board of Library Trustees and Finance Committee.

As presented the first floor plan resembled very much the plans of the first floor of the Colonial design of six months ago. It was, in fact, basically the same plan.

The building, without a second story, was described as containing 17,505 square feet. This included a basement of 2485 square feet.

A feature of the building was a planned second story, to be 9500 square feet, which could be added at some future date. This addition would bring the total area to 27,105 square feet, sufficient when divided by .7 square feet per capita, as recommended in the past by Philip McNiff, Consultant, for a population of 38,000.

What can perhaps be best described as a Counter-Proposal was presented by members of the Finance Committee, while members of the Library Board fought to retain what they considered to be essential ideas.

Finance Committeeman Carlos Gubellini seemed to be the only member of that board who realized that the Library Trustees were thinking in cultural terms.

Using the forecasted 30,000 population figure in 20 years, and using the same .7 square foot rule, the Finance Committee argued that a building of 14,000 square feet would be sufficient to handle a population of 20,000 immediately. The present population is 15,265.

This figure, the Finance Committee members felt, would also result in a reduction of size for the future second story, to perhaps 7800 square feet. The final building when built, Finance Committee chairman Dick Barry said, could be about 21,800 square feet in area which would be sufficient for a population of 31,000, using the formula of Mr McNiff.

Vice Chairman George Boylen of the Finance Committee pointed out that McNiff had told him that the figure of .7 was not a minimum figure, but rather an optimum one.

Chairman Michelson of the PBC pointed out to the assembled group that a consultant who has been hired should be used.

His position, he said, was that if you did not take his recommendations you were wasting money. The groups, he declared, must decide soon because of the coming town meeting, on a final cost figure.

The final cost of the building, as proposed at the beginning of the meeting, was $555,000, as compared to the cost of $886,400 estimated six months ago.

The Finance Committee counter proposal was for $450,000. The figures presented were, it was clearly understood, without any books, but including air conditioning.

The architect was using figures of $25 a square foot, in his estimates, which, he said, included air conditioning at a cost of $4 a square foot.

Barry, while discussing the $25 figure, said that library construction figures by Joseph L Wheeler, a well known consultant, were from $12 to $25 a square foot.

The Library Board, Mr Buzzell, Miss Franklin Allen and Mrs. Neilson, agreed to study the proposals, and to make a reply at an early date.

Henneberger signs Step-by-step Contract

Town Manager Richard Henneberger, last week, signed a contract with Professor Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University, Planning Consultant, for a general review of the problems of Wilmington. The contract price was $1000.

Professor Eliot's contract had been recommended by the Planning Board, in mid-January, after several interviews.

Mr. Eliot will prepare and submit fifty mimeographed copies of a report which will include:

1. A general review of the problems and opportunities for the future of Wilmington which might appropriately be the subjects of planning;

2. A general review of the past and current planning activities related to these problems and opportunities with notes and comments on availability of materials and data, and needs for revisions and added information on existing maps and in by-laws;

3. A 'program' for long-range planning and step-by-step development of plans with recommendations for procedures and estimates of costs.

The services of Mr. Eliot will involve among other things, visits to the Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development, conferences with various town officials, TM, Selectmen, Planning Board, etc., and meetings with Sam Snow, Planner for Wilmington.

The report is to include further steps and planning work which will require further professional planning services, by Mr. Eliot or some other professional planner.

The funds are being provided by five of Wilmington's firms, who are underwriting a three year program of studies in planning in Wilmington.

TM Richard Henneberger explained that he preferred the contract with Eliot rather than the one which was proposed by the Planning Board seven weeks ago because of three reasons - 1. There was no unanimity on the Board at that time, - 2. The contract then proposed was with a firm that was essentially in engineering rather than in planning, and the Planning Board had conducted too many interviews, trying to bargain on a 'dollar' basis.

REPRESENTATIVE ELECT
MISS CYNTHIA BLAKE

Miss Cynthia Blake, High School senior, and daughter of Mr and Mrs Arnold Blake, 90 Middlesex Avenue has been named the Wilmington High School delegate to the State Legislature, in April, for Student Government Day.

Miss Blake will serve as a Representative.

It's anybody's grab, for Selectman

It's anybody's Grab, in the race for Selectman of Wilmington, this year. Any candidate who can roll up 500 friends to the polls stands a good chance of being elected.

Not every name listed by the Town Clerk, on her bulletin board will be a candidate, but the lady does have twelve. Some are quite sure to drop out, however.

Felice Vitale of Woburn Street leads the list. He filed for Selectman last October. That's about the time that he learned that the spectators in a Selectmen's meeting may not take part in their debates.

Others who have taken out papers, but not necessarily filed, include Robert E Jennings of Morse Avenue, active in the Jaycees, Charles P Greene of Shady Lane Drive, retired Milkman, Raymond Fitzmaurice of Boutwell Street, Architect; Rose M Ryder of Main Street, housewife; Joseph J Sottile of Baker Street, photography manager; James F Banda of Marie Drive, attorney; Harold McKelvey of Border Avenue, veteran; Frederick L Arsenault of Dell Drive, finance committeeman; James R. Miceli of Cedar Crest Road, Jaycee, Charles H Black of Church Street, veteran selectman, and Robert Leahy of Woburn Street, Avco engineer.

Rene LaRivee is not a candidate for re-election, while Mr. Black is. It's Anybody's Grab, for Rene's seat.

So far John Hartnett does not seem to be a candidate for re-election to the School Committee.

Richard Keane, of North Street, whose term of office is expiring, is a candidate.

That leaves David J Dingle of School Street, and Joseph A Paglia of Nichols Street as the outstanding candidates for the seat of Mr Hartnett.

For Wilmington Housing Authority, and also for Moderator, there seems to be no contest.

Simon Cutter is a candidate to succeed himself as Moderator. He seems to be the only candidate.

Charles Burt of the Housing Authority does not seem to be a candidate for re-election, and Wilson J Belbin of Woburn Street has taken papers.

If there are no other candidates Mr. Belbin will possibly be a shoo-in.

BACKGROUND TO THE NEWS

Town Manager Dick Henneberger is planning a series of monthly reports, for the Board of Selectmen, on the activities of the various departments in the town.

The reports will be a 'capsule' of the major activities, so that the Selectmen should be aware of what is going on, without having to spend too much time in studying detail. Every department will be included.

Henneberger is hoping to find himself in a position where Burlington Avenue can be rebuilt, using Chapter 90 funds, rather than leave it in its present condition. A special Town Meeting voted down funds for land damages, last fall, and temporarily stopped all chances.

Henneberger has written two letters to the County Commissioners on the subject, one last November, and one recently, hoping that the town would not lose the funds allocated to Burlington Avenue. With the 1966 funds the total allocated for that street is $92,400.

There is a chance that the County Commissioners will order the work done, and order the town to pay for the land damages, via the 'Cherry Sheet', a yearly financial statement which each municipality gets from the state, listing payments that have to be made by the towns and cities. It is legally possible to do this, under the statutes of Massachusetts.

The order, if it comes, will come from the County Commissioners, who are giving serious consideration to the matter. The County Commissioners are of a mind that they cannot allow one town to block progress on a long State Route, by keeping the street narrow within the town's limits.

The Sewer Study Committee, two weeks ago, decided to forego any more meetings until after the regular Town Meeting.

A sum of $147,000 is available from the Federal Government for extension of sewers, but it has to be used in residential areas only, and the members of the committee couldn't resolve the problem of whether or not the residents of any particular area might be willing to pay for the necessary 'betterments' which would be a part of the sewer extension. The $147,000, if ever used, will have to be paid back later. The committee felt that they could not go ahead with a 'clear conscience'.

Wilmington's Civil Defense truck is now parked at the J. W. Greer plant on Main Street. The new fire truck made the Fire Station too crowded. Greer's was the place where the Civil Defense Fire Truck was also parked. Some of the former Civil Defense firemen have been complaining recently about how they never got a chance to have a drill.

Wilmington is not the only town where the Fire Department are asking for a 42 hour week. The Burlington Fire Department is doing the same thing. The betting is that they don't get it.

BENDER'S PROPOSAL

The proposal of Selectman Lloyd Bender for a by-law or law, to prohibit elective or appointive members of boards and commissions from serving more than two terms in consecutive order is well worth the consideration of every voter. It will probably appear on the ballots in the March election.

The chances of it being accepted in the Legislature are excellent. The real decision will be up to the Wilmington voters.

The law, as proposed, would not take effect until one year from now, so that persons who are elected or appointed this year would not feel its effects for some years yet.

Mr. Bender believes that there are too few persons who are really taking a part in, and understanding the town government. He argues that a Selectman, for instance, should step aside after six years, and let someone else into office, and the same goes for appointive boards, such as the Planning Board, Board of Appeals, Finance Committee, etc. After one year off any particular board or commission, the former member can again serve, or he may be appointed or elected to any other board.

The law would not affect any official who is not a member of a board or commission - i.e. the Town Manager, Town Clerk, etc. In this way, Bender argues, there can be some new faces occasionally, and more people will be encouraged to take part in the town's affairs.

Winchester does not have a law such as this, but there is an informal agreement in that town, which is very well observed, that no person will serve more than one term on any board.

Charles H. Black, a candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectmen, has had a record of many years service to the town in many capacities.

He was first elected to the Board of Selectmen in 1935, but before that had served the town in several capacities, as a call fireman, in the 1928 Building By Law Committee, on the Board of Appeals, and, among other things, as Administrator of the CWA, ERA, and WPA programs in Wilmington during the early years of the depression of the 1930's.

He was chairman of the Welfare Board, chairman of the Buzzell School Building Committee, and served on the High School Building Committee.

First elected a Selectman in 1935 he did not serve in 1950, but was again a part of the board when the Town Manager plan went into effect in 1951, and has served ever since.

He makes his home at 84 Church Street.

Garden Apartments

Not now says Planning Board

The Planning Board, Tuesday evening, voted to send a letter to the Town Manager and Selectmen saying in effect that the town is not ready for Garden Type apartment houses.

The first part of the vote was to have a letter of information for the Town Manager, on the past actions of the board and the town, regarding previous proposals.

The second part was a recommendation that the town proceed with a study, using Federal Government '701 Funds', if a Master Plan of the town should indicate that Garden Type apartments were feasible. Professor Elliot, in his studies, should work on this, the board indicated.

The third part was a motion to go on record as being against Apartment House zoning until a long-range Master Plan had been prepared for Wilmington.

The motion was made by Madelyn McKie, and seconded by James Banda. The vote was unanimous, Berger being absent.

Discussion

In the discussion which preceded the vote Chairman Austin Rounds said that many people believed, just because the Planning Board was willing to talk about Garden Type Apartments it was going to approve.

The desire for such apartments is very small now, he said, and the town is under 'no real pressure'. A time would come, he said, when someone from out of town might be wanting to spend 'real money', and the Planning Board should be ready for such an event, by means of preparation.

He did not want the Planning Board subjected to 'political pressure' and felt that the town should be ready if something were presented that was 'good for Wilmington'.

Atty James Banda didn't want to see 'it stalled for ever and ever'. He pointed out that there is now a building code which can apply, but really didn't feel there would be a demand for apartment housing, nor that it 'was going to die right now'.

Mrs McKie stated that she felt that if the Planning Board were to approve of Apartment Housing it would open a 'Pandora's Box'.

She agreed that if it was done it should be in a well planned manner, but personally felt that there were 'larger' prospects than apartment housing.

Danny Gillis reviewed studies of other towns and cities, made by Wilmington, before giving his opinion, and then quoted a letter from the Town Manager, which stated that Atty. Roland Wood believed that the public should decide, on Apartment Housing, in Town Meeting.

'I go along,' he said, 'that it is the prerogative of the people'. 'I also go along that the question was decided - in town meeting - and it was turned down'.

He then read a report by Planner Sam Snow, dated a year ago, which said that there was no need.

'The professional planner says so - the people said so in 1964!'

Gillis thought that there should be a long range study, probably using '701 funds'. He pointed out that the town does not have sewerage available for apartment housing, and finished by saying that there is 'no immediate need as far as we know'.

Planner Sam Snow pointed out to the board that the town was in 'an unusually good condition' in that it had engaged Professor Elliot for a study. 'One of the things he is going to do is to go around town and get a consensus'.

He felt personally that there was no need for apartment housing now, but that if long-range planning should indicate areas for apartment housing 'then you can be in a good position, with an over-all scheme'.

'I recommend that the town act unfavorably'.

Zoning Violations

He quoted from a memorandum of Town Manager Henneberger of Sept. 16th, which noted that there was a list of 'old violations'.

Gillis proposed that the Planning Board 'start this week' in bringing to the attention of the Town Manager 'two old violations, and two new violations'. He then proceeded to outline the cases that he considered should be used this week.

The program, Gillis said, was one that should be continued. The board agreed with him, voting 3-0 with Banda abstaining.

Gillis then said 'I have one more year on this board, and I want to see this (list of zoning violations) cleared up before I leave'.

Changing the subject Gillis then pointed out that the 'Political Season' was about to begin, and that the Tree Warden has the authority under Section 9 of Chapter 87, General Laws, to prosecute people who tack political signs to trees. There is a $50 fine for this Gillis told the board, and he hoped that the law would be enforced.

In Burlington, he said, the law is enforced. 'It costs $50 to tack a sign onto a tree, there!'

Host Board

The Wilmington Planning Board is to be the 'Host Board' for a meeting of Planning Board Region 5A, in May. As such it is up to the Wilmington Planning Board to find a place to hold the meeting, and to plan the program, etc.

James Miceli, former member, is the appointed representative of the Wilmington Planning Board to the regional organization, and is a Vice President of that organization

He was present for a part of the Planning Board meeting Tuesday night, and told the board that he was going ahead with plans for a meeting to be held in the Rolling Green, in Andover. Perhaps seriously, perhaps as a joke, he hoped that planner Sam Snow would be the speaker for the evening.

Mr Miceli's remarks threw the board into something like a Tizzy, after he had left.

They did not know whether or not he could represent them, even if he is the Vice President of the association. The board agreed that he could stay in the organization as a private individual, but what his public position was the board did not know.

Mrs McKie

Mrs McKie, as the Wilmington representative to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, had a somewhat similar problem.

Melvin Bloom, former Planning Board member, was the Wilmington representative to that organization, and Mrs McKie, when she attended her first meeting, was reminded of this, and that his appointment was still in force.

She remarked that she did not know just what she could do, but believed that she would just 'sit in, a back seat' at the next MAPC meeting.

Agenda

The first hour of the meeting was spent in a discussion with Sam Snow over the uses of the Agenda which he prepares for the meetings now, and how to keep records of the meetings.

Mr Snow pointed out that the previous reports of Planning Board meetings were 'more than adequate' to tell the members what had happened in previous meetings, but that in places they could be challenged, in court, if ever there were legal difficulties.

The board listened quietly, and in the main agreed with Snow.

The Selectmen's Meeting

The Selectmen met with the Power Study Committee and secondly with residents of Oak Court Monday night to decide whether or not articles for the warrant would be forthcoming from either group. The Power Study Committee recommended that no article be put on the warrant at this time, and the five families of Oak Court felt that they could not afford the $13,000 cost in betterments for a street.

The Power Study Committee recommended that, for the time being, the Selectmen attempt negotiation with Reading Light for a rate reduction for the town. Ten of eleven comparable local power companies studied, PSC Chairman Irwin Hanke told the Selectmen, charge lower rates than Reading Municipal Light. Eight of these charge lower rates to industry, three higher. Hanke said the three charging higher rates were very small communities with no large industry.

Hanke told of meeting with Reading Light officials in an attempt to get information concerning rates. The officials were co-operative and friendly, Hanke said, but managed, he said, to evade disclosing any hard facts concerning their rate structure.

Reading Light did reveal that they are in the process of negotiating with Boston Edison for a reduction in rates. They assured Hanke that any reduction received by Boston Edison would be passed on as a rate decrease to the customers.

The Selectmen questioned the PSC on the alternatives of getting our power from another source and of setting up our own power company. Hanke answered that communications with other power companies revealed that we could get our power from the New England Power Company for less than the present rate. Hanke and the other PSC members, William Hooper, Stanley Webber, Albert Parsons and Robert Leahy, all concurred in saying that Wilmington could set up its own power company and make it a profitable enterprise.

Hanke explained that setting up our own power company would entail buying our power from either Boston Edison or New England Power, and buying up the assets of Reading Municipal Light in Wilmington. A bond issue would be necessary to finance the operation but the profits from the power company would pay off the bond issue. After that, all profits would go to the town.

Hanke said that although the right to negotiate with a municipal power company, as guaranteed by the General Laws, has not been exercised by Wilmington before, now is the time to establish a new precedent and begin negotiations.

Selectmen Bender moved that Wilmington invite North Reading, and Lynnfield Center, the other communities who get their power from Reading Light, to send representatives to meet with us to organize a joint negotiation with Reading Light. He added, 'I take as dim a view of Reading Power's light structure as their lights are here in Wilmington.' The motions passed unanimously.

Mrs. Drew commended the Power Study Committee for their excellent research and recommendations, and was joined in her commendation by the other members of the Board.

Oak Court

The residents of Oak Court, five families in all, met with the Board to discuss the acceptance and installation of a street under the Betterments Act. Town Engineer Al Savignac estimated the street construction at $13,000, a figure the five families felt was beyond their means. They voted unanimously against having the betterments article appear on the warrant.

Spokesmen for the group explained that the builder had led them to believe that he was going to install the street, which he failed to do. Now they find themselves faced with an additional $2,000 to $3,000 expenditure per house. The residents felt that this addition to the price of their houses was insupportable.

Bender and Niles explained to the residents that they would have had protection from this sort of thing had the houses been constructed under the subdivision section of the zoning by-law. Since the land on which the houses were constructed had already been subdivided, the town was powerless to demand that the builder conform to the by-law. Bender suggested that the residents consult an attorney to see if there is any way they can force the builder to make good on his promises.

Jurors

The names of Ralph Crawford, 3 Chase Road, and George W. Harnish, 1 Kendall Street were drawn for the jury pool in Cambridge, March 7. Mary Condrey 3 Powderhouse Circle was drawn for the civil session in Lowell, March 7.

Heart Sunday

In response to a request by Heart Fund Chairman, Robert Leahy, the Board proclaimed February 'Heart Month' and February 27th, 'Heart Sunday'.

Planning Board Articles

The Planning Board wrote to the Board requesting that three articles dealing with the Zoning By-Law be put on the warrant for the annual Town Meeting. One article would require that no amendment be made to the Zoning By-Law without a public hearing; another would identify the zoning map with the By-Law, making a change in the map the same as an amendment to the By-Law; and the third would be a new section reading: 'This By-Law shall be deemed to constitute a re-enactment and continuance of the Zoning By-Law in effect when it was adopted except so far as it contains changes in working or arrangement which unequivocally constitute changes in meaning.'

In other action the Board renewed the license for the Friendly Ice Cream Shop.

Selectman Charles Black made a special appeal to the townspeople to dig out fire hydrants which are buried in snow. Not only are buried hydrants a hazard should a fire occur, but they may accidentally be sheared off by snow removal equipment.

At 9:25 pm the Board went into executive session to work on the warrant.

St Thomas Church

Call to Parents and CCD Teachers

Starting in February approximately 100 centers throughout the Archdiocese of Boston will continue an expanded program designed to assist laymen and women to reach religion in the parish schools of religion.

The subject matter of the 'Principles of Teaching' course covers classroom demonstrations, child and adolescent psychology, discipline, classroom procedure, and lesson planning. The course will run for twelve sessions, and meets for one and one-half hours each session.

Richard Cardinal Cushing has stated that lay people who successfully complete the teacher training classes and who offer their services to their parishes make possible the formation of smaller CCD classes to permit more individual attention for each pupil.

The Cardinal has, therefore, issued this further appeal to the lay people so that children and youth can make even greater progress along the continuous path of religious training. Participants in the course have come from every field . . . from the professional man and housewife to the proverbial candlestick maker. Actually, those who have worked out well as CCD teachers represent all occupations and professions.

The Cardinal, who supervises the schools of religion through the Archdiocesan CCD office refers to the CCD program as 'The greatest program sponsored by the Church in modern times.'

Locally the course will be given at St Thomas Parish Hall, Middlesex Ave, beginning Tuesday February 8th at 8:15 pm with Sister Mary Petra, M.S.B.T., instructor. It will also be available on Sunday evening beginning February 6 at 7:30 pm at St. Anthony's Church in North Woburn.

Vandals destroyed the town's ski tow, at the Town Park, last week.

The truck which had been used to operate the tow had all windows broken, all spark plugs smashed, and the carureter destroyed. Other damage was done as well.

Town employees are doubtful if the ski tow will be operating again this winter.

It will be impossible, they think, with the heavy snow now on the ground, to drive the town's 'Tree Truck' into a position where they can re-rig the tow rope up the hill.

Storm may cost up to $25,000

Town Manger Richard Henneberger figures he received about 100 telephone calls, from residents of Wilmington, about the condition of streets in this town as the result of the snow storm of Sunday and Monday nights.

Schools were closed for two days as Highway Department crews augmented by employees of other town departments struggled with the heavy snow.

The average snow fall in Wilmington was ten inches. The snow was very wet and heavy.

The town was put at a disadvantage because a large part of the heavy equipment generally hired by the town from the Cronin Brothers was being used overtime at Avco, clearing the parking lot there.

Some of the town employees worked for 40 hours without stopping, after which they were commended for their work by the Town Manager.

He learned, to his surprise, that there were no applications on hand for part-time employment, in the Town Hall. The Town Manager says that he could have used several additional men, because of the heavy work-load, and hopes that if another time occurs he will have names of available men, in a file, applying for work.

Several private snow plow operators became hors-de-combat as the result of the heavy snow. Three snow plow rigs attached to service stations, including at least one four wheel drive Jeep, were unable to move the heavy snow and became disabled.

One man who had no trouble however was Sam Perry of High Street, a gentleman who admits to 85 summers, and may have a few more. Mr. Perry is the son of the Mr. Perry who started what was later the Harriman Tannery. In early days, just after the Civil War it was known as Perry and Cutler.

Sam was up and clearing his neighbors driveways, gratis, on both Monday and Tuesday. Not only that, but he was on the job as early as 5:40 am. He used his own tractor, a vehicle of uncertain age but which always starts, and has plowed his garden for years.

Another resident who discovered (?) a remedy for the heavy snow was Jack Madigan, of Taplin Av. Jack became incensed because the snow plow did not turn up his street, and when driver Roscoe Denault stopped to have a change of shoes, Madigan threw the truck keys up into the sand in the truck. It was not recorded what Mr. Denault thought of the idea.

The Town Manger believes, after a tour of the town made Tuesday afternoon, that all streets have been cleared, although he found some that resembled, he said, path ways in a forest, rather than streets in a town of 15,000. He did not send the heavy equipment down those streets, for fear of damage, and consequent delay to the clearing of the main streets.

The storm, he estimates, may possibly cost the town $25,000.

SNOW PLOWING ON THE OLD RAILROAD

The old Salem & Lowell Railroad right-of-way, in North Wilmington dates back to 1851, but hasn't been used for railroad purposes since 1921.

A portion of it was accepted by the town, a couple of years ago, the portion between Andover St. and Rte 125, and named Ainsworth Road. It happened as a part of a deal by a former Town Manager, who was hoping that Industry would come into town, if there was plenty of Industrially zoned land.

One did. It built a small 10,000 square foot building at the end of Ainsworth Road, and employed half a dozen people for several years. Last summer it moved out, and the building has been empty since.

Two weeks ago the firm of Hylelectronics, formerly of Burlington, moved in.

Jack Kline, the President, had to have more space. His firm was growing. It is in the secretive electronics industry, where every one is manufacturing small and very very small electrical components for rockets and similar gadgetry.

Mr Kline needed more room. He found it in the building at the end of Ainsworth Road, and he took a five year lease, through a Burlington firm, with Raymond Fenton of Wilmington's General Realty playing a part in getting the firm to Wilmington.

It was a nice location, at the end of what was almost a private road. True, the road did not have a hard surface, but someone said it could be done shortly, for the town had accepted the street.

But there was a rub, as Kline found out, Monday morning.

Even if the town had accepted Ainsworth Road, the current Board of Selectmen and Town Manager were not in favor of fulfilling in a blindfolded manner the agreement made by a former town manager and former selectmen.

The street is still privately owned, even if the town has accepted it.

And in the big snow storm the town trucks were busy plowing the accepted streets. They did not have time to do privately owned streets.

The employees of Hylelectronics arrived at Andover Street Monday morning, to see before them about half a mile of unplowed street, leading to their place of employment. They turned around and went home, while Jack Kline headed for the Town Hall, to talk with the Town Manager.

Dick Henneberger, Kline found, was very co-operative. About 11 am the street was plowed. But the help had gone home, and Hylelectronics had lost one day's work.

Tuesday the Town Crier went up for a look. The street was still privately owned - maybe there was a story there.

There were two. The first is that which has just been related.

Ainsworth Road was a thing of beauty, with heavy white snow hanging from the trees. There had not been enough automobile traffic to dirty the street.

The Town Crier decided on a photograph of the street - just for beauty's sake.

Some of the employees were just returning from lunch. One car had three young fellows - in their mid-twenties, perhaps.

There was a stranger - taking photographs near a plant that was making electronic parts for the Air Force - or the Army, or somebody.

Maybe he was a Roosian Spy! One of the young men jumped out of the car, when it stopped, with a camera in his hand.

And now the Town Crier Photographer has been Photographed.

AVCO INTRODUCES NEW CORPORATE SYMBOL

Avco's Wilmington division is now officially designated the Research and Development Division of Avco Corporation and has a new corporate symbol, the company name inside a modern stylized 'A'.

Since 1957, the organization has been known as Avco's Research and Advanced Development Division. E.D. McKenna, Avco Vice President and Division General Manager said that the word 'advanced' has ceased serving as a necessary description of what we, as a Division, do.

JAMES MICELI IS CANDIDATE FOR SELECTMAN

James Miceli, Cedar Crest Rd., has announced his candidacy for Selectman in Wilmington. He has lived in town since 1955 and has been very active in community affairs.

He worked his way through North eastern University, earning a BS degree in 1958. A Liberty Mutual insurance agent, he is a million dollar producer in group insurance and a member of the Top Producer's Club.

While on the Planning Board from 1963 to 1966, he worked long and hard for the benefit of the town and had a nearly perfect attendance record. He serves as Vice-Chairman, Massachusetts Federation of Planning Board, Region 5A.

In 1964 he was named Wilmington's Outstanding Young Man for his civic contributions and was cited in the 1965 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America. A past-president of the Wilmington Jaycees, he is still active, having recently organized Toys for Welfare Tots at Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets for Deming Way residents.

Mr. Miceli served as bazaar chairman for St. Thomas Church in 1963 and handled the ad book for the annual CDA show last spring. In 1964 he organized Jaycee participation in the EMARC drive.

Married to the former Jean Mattson of Rockport, an English teacher, and the father of two children, Mr. Miceli feels he can bring fair representation to all the people of Wilmington as their Selectman.

BUCKY ON THE JOB: Carl Backman cannot be down at the Wilmington Skating Club, this year, teaching the youngsters how to skate because there is no ice - the country side is too dry.

So he spends his time at the skating rink (tennis courts) beside the Roman House, watching for youngsters who might be too cold, and clearing off the ice while he watches.

Dear Larz,

That picture of George Spanos in his store brought back some very pleasant memories. George was the best! Wilmington was lucky to have had him. Too bad there aren't more Georges in this world.

In his memory, I think it would be more appropriate to name our new planned library after him, rather than the new school, tucked away in the woods. The library will be more centrally located and patronized by the majority of the town.

Yours truly,
George E. Gates

Dear Larz,

I do not often write this type of letter, but in this instance I feel compelled to do so.

Every once in a while an individual comes along who seems to have that extra 'something' which makes things happen.

Jim Miceli is that type of person. It has been my privilege to have worked with him on various projects. Whether it is taking youngsters around town looking for sponsors for the soapbox derby, raising money for and helping distribute Thanksgiving baskets at Deming Way, or helping build a skating rink for the youth of Wilmington, here's a man who has unselfishly devoted his time and energy to many a worthy cause.

In the same vein, he has given numerous man hours (far into the night) for the good of the town while serving on the Wilmington Planning Board.

Because his opinions differed sharply from some of the Selectmen and they saw that he could not be compromised, they evidently felt he had to go.

The question has not been answered in my mind -- why dismiss him when two junior members had just recently been appointed?

Sincerely yours,
Frank J. McNally, Jr.

MONTHLY IMMUNIZATION CLINIC

Beginning with the monthly clinic in February, measles vaccine will be given to children, 9 months of age to 5 years, after the basic immunizations against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus have been completed.

The following schedule is the State recommendations for immunization of pre-school children.

3 months of age, 1st DPT and 1st Oral Polio drink.

4 months of age, 2nd DPT.

5 months of age, 3rd DPT, and 2nd Oral Polio drink.

9 months old, measles vaccine.

An Arab now Town Crier's Foreign Correspondent

Beirut,
Jan 13, 1966

Dear Friends:

Since my last letter I have experienced a vast change in customs and way of life.

I am now in the center of an Arab world, and I find things quite different and interesting. In order to bring you up to date I shall start at the home of my friends near Munich, Germany, from which I wrote my last account.

On July 28th I said farewell to the Ehrl family and headed south through the picturesque countryside to visit the area of Berchtesgaden where Hitler had a mountain retreat known as the 'Eagle's Nest'.

In this area I had the pleasure of visiting the Salzbergwerk, which is a salt mine initially opened in 1570 and still worked on a lower level than that visited.

The novelty of the tour is added to by the baggy uniform worn by all and the several methods of travel through the mine. These include a long ride to and from the center on a small railroad car with long straddle seats, through narrow dark tunnels. The use of slide chutes to get to lower levels provides another unexpected thrill.

On this day I crossed the border into Austria, the land of the easy pace of life, and the Danube River. I was quite impressed by the natural scenery in the area of Mondsee which boasts of several beautiful lakes nestled between rugged hills. I was reminded of Spain as I tried to buy a picnic lunch at about 1 pm.

I learned quickly that all the shops are closed from 12 noon to 3 or 4 pm.

I encountered the Danube at Melk and followed it to the capital.

I spent eight days in Vienna with a friend who lives near the center of the city, and thus had an opportunity to explore all the attractions of this hugh city of Old and New.

Parks and gardens are well kept and plentiful here where the people have a great love for the outdoors, even if it means only an evening walk in a flower-studded park.

On the advice of my friend I took the mountain road to Innsbruck and found myself in surroundings much like Yosemite National Park. The beauty of the panorama was exceeded only by that of the weather. When I reached Innsbruck I could easily understand why this spot was chosen to host the Olympic Games.

The vastness of the encircling mountains and the fairy tale atmosphere lent by the typical design of the little houses in the villages encourages one to set himself apart from other places and to become entranced in the immediate surroundings.

As I viewed the skating oval I was reminded of the skating pride of Wilmingt, and of Jeanne Ashworth, who had performed so creditably there.

The weather was so fine that I spent three days camping on the River Inn, not far from the city.

From Austria I entered the tiny country of Liechtenstein which is a part of Switzerland. It encompasses about 100 square miles and from a hill in the capital, Vaduz, the entire country can be seen on a clear day. After visiting friends in Zug, Switzerland for a few days, I started my "conquest of the Alps" which amounted to driving my scooter over them through the Gotthard Pass. This drive was much easier than I had expected and I had an uneventful but, scenery-wise, rewarding trip on my faithful scooter as I drove past the highest point of the route at 6916 feet above sea-level.
